

Severe Weather, Flash Flood Threats for the Plains; Excessive Heat for the West

A storm across the center of the nation will focus the threat of severe thunderstorms and excessive rainfall the rest of this week; Large hail, a few strong tornadoes and flash flooding is forecast across Texas and areas of the Central Plains today. For the west, rising temperatures will bring an early season summer-like heat into the weekend. Critical fire weather for areas of New Mexico remain. Read More >
